SMOKE SIGNALS

From the Wabaningo Wilderness:

Mike the Scribe of Troop 57 reports that his troop rode in and on the Wolf River on a very enjoyable rubber raft trip yesterday. One member to go into the drink was their beloved scoutmaster, "Doc," on a backward spill while shooting the white rapids. Their exciting trip was followed by a picnic with some Family Camp members who joined the scouts for their day's adventure. They all say, "EVERYONE SHOULD TRY IT!" Contact your commissioner soon!

Congratulations to Matt McDemand for being the first guy in the provisional troop to receive a merit badge this year. Keep it up!

Radar Remarks:

Dear Radar, We're being eaten alive out here in "Wab" I don't think they'll really hurt us, but what's the best way to prevent infection from biting insects?

-Nibbled

Dear Nibbled, Don't bite any!!!
Weather: Improving; less than 30% chance of rain.

The Chaplain's Corner:

"Let that walk in darkness and has no light, let him trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon his God." Here at MaKaJaWan, it can get quite dark at night. Yet even then we look up and see one of God's promises of light. The stars are ever present reminders of His presence. God bless you!
