LADY BADEN-POWELL DIES; WIDOW OF SCOUTS' FOUNDER

WEST CAMP: That was some "Kansas Storm" last night. It was almost strong enough to land a tent platform on the wicked witches in the East. And if you think it was Dick Moore who saved you, YOU'RE WRONG! It was the Wizard of the Emerald City himself, Swannie, who saved us. Come down to the Emerald City and learn how to build a tower to look out for those "Kansas Storms" and also how to build a sturdy campsite, so those twisters won't carry you away. Follow the Yellow dirt road to the Commissioners.

WEST CAMP WEATHER: A whopping amount of rain fell last night: .55 in. Today will be very humid with the possibility of more thunderstorms. Tomorrow the weather will clear and temperatures will drop. This situation will hold until Saturday.
